Should We Be Worried About Liquidity?

Thursday, October 23, at 9:00 AM CT (10:00 AM ET, 7:00 AM PT, and 15:00 BST) Bianco Research, in conjunction with Arbor Research & Trading, will be hosting a webinar/teleconference moderated by Jim Bianco.

Funding markets are showing signs of stress. How concerned should we be? We will also share our thoughts about inflation heading into Friday's CPI release and AI's impact on investing.

Intraday Commentary From Jim Bianco

This chart shows the track record of the 5-year TIPS in predicting actual inflation.

The orange line is the 5-year TIPS inflation break-even rate FIVE YEARS AGO. The blue line is the 5-year average inflation rate (because the 5-year TIPS is predicting the 5-year average inflation rate). The bottom panel is the difference, or the error rate, of the TIPS market.

TIPS break-evens are a terrible predictor of the actual inflation rate. Tossing a coin might be better. That said, it is a good measure of what market players think will happen, but knowing market expectations says nothing about what will happen.

The Fed's favor measure, the 5yr/5yr forward inflation rate, is even worse.

The Fed knows this, so they subtly started calling TIPS break-even rates "Inflation compensation" and not "inflation expectations." Meaning the TIPS market is what the market is charging you to buy protection against inflation, but it is NOT a predictor of what the inflation rate will be.
